

Giarenis Ilias

I am a Consultant Gynaecologist and Subspecialist Urogynaecologist at the Norfolk and Norwich University Hospital. I completed my general training in Obstetrics and Gynaecology in the East of England prior to undertaking a two-year urogynaecology research fellowship with Professor Linda Cardozo. I was awarded a Doctor of Medicine degree (MD) by King's College London for research in the assessment of female lower urinary tract dysfunction. I gained subspecialty accreditation by the Royal College of Obstetricians and Gynaecologists following the completion of a further three-year advanced training programme in the Department of Urogynaecology at King's College Hospital in London.

While I have been mainly a clinician, I have also contributed significantly to developing medical knowledge through my involvement in several national and international research studies. I have published 50 papers in peer-reviewed journals and presented more than 80 abstracts in national and international conferences. My main areas of research interests include the assessment of lower urinary tract dysfunction and management of recurrent stress urinary incontinence. I am currently the Chair of the European Urogynaecological Association (EUGA) Publication Committee and member of the BSUG Research Committee.