

Hajra Khattak

Clinical Research Fellow

Institute of Metabolism and Systems Research, University of Birmingham Academic Department, 3rd Floor Birmingham Women's and Children's Hospital NHS Foundation Trust

Hajra is a resident in obstetrics and Gynaecology in Birmingham, UK and also a doctoral student under the supervision of Professor Arri Coomarasamy. Hajra is an early career researcher and holds a keen interest in reproductive medicine and endocrinology, in particular female fertility preservation. The focus of her thesis has been assessing the effectiveness of ovarian tissue cryopreservation and transplantation.